

Instructor: Date:

Learner: Regional Branch:

Program: Center:

CONTENT

- Let's Start! • Let's Explore! • Let's Practice! • Extension Activity • Target Words • Learning Points

Let's Start!

Let's review!

Learning Outcome

Exchange advice and suggestions in communicative situations.

Ask your partner:

- What are your favorite animals?
- What would you do if you knew that your favorite animals were endangered?

Can Do Statements

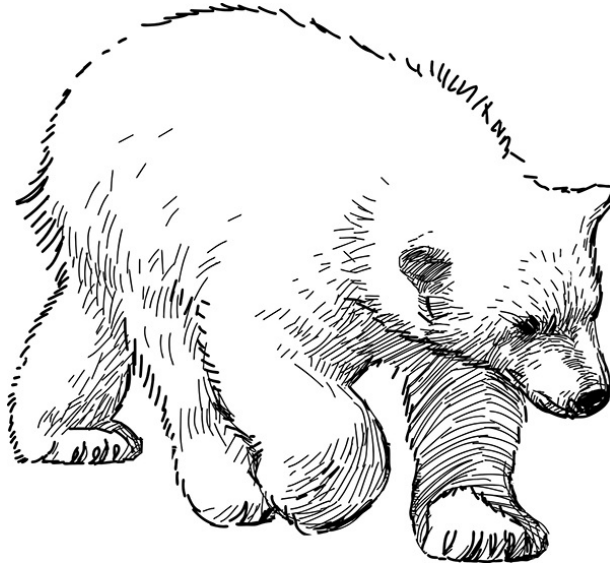

- I can talk about nature and the animal world.
- I can show I understand someone's feelings.
- I can talk about hypothetical situations and how to deal with problems.

Let's Explore!

Sally blogs about our world. What does she suggest?

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

Well readers, over the last week, I've written a few blog posts related to the preservation of wildlife and how we can change the way we think about all things "green". I know you must be tired of hearing about climate change and ecological issues, but here are some points that I hope you will consider:

- You ought to watch more wildlife documentaries - they are a good reminder that some animals are in danger of being wiped out or already may be extinct.
- You should consider a "green" trip - like whale watching or an Arctic cruise. Seeing animals like polar bears, narwhals, walruses and seals in their natural habitat can help you feel less disconnected from the world.
- You'd better become more aware of the illicit trade and poaching of protected animals in your country.

If you could do one of these things, which one would you choose? If we all decided to make a small change in the way we lived and thought about our world, we could make a big difference! You must be excited to try something out!

Let's Practice!

Sally writes another message to her readers.

Instructions: Read the message. Select the correct adjective for expressing feelings or impressions.

After reading my blog, I'm sure you must feel a little (disappointed / disappointing) about the state of our world. It's (discouraged / discouraging) to know that we have such a big problem to deal with. I know you must be (disheartened / disheartening) to think about the scale of the issue and how it affects future generations. I'm also (overwhelmed / overwhelming) at times. However, I truly believe that every little bit counts. You must be (determined / determining) and focused in your beliefs if you want to make a change. Good luck!

Let's Practice!

What about the animals?

Instructions: Proofread the sentences. Correct the incorrect word. Practice reading the sentences aloud with a partner. Check your pronunciation with your instructor.

1. Some animals are in danger of being swiped out or already may be extreme.
2. Seeing animals like poler bears, narwhals, walruses and seels in their natural habitat can help you feel less disconnection from the world.
3. I've written a few blog posts related to the preserve of wildlife and how we can change the way we think about all things greenery.

Extension Activity

Listen to "Gone" by Jack Johnson or "Big Yellow Taxi" by Joni Mitchell.

Instructions: Complete the following steps. Fill in the Self-Assessment.

- Go online and find these songs and the lyrics to these songs.
- Listen and read along.
- What message are these singers trying to convey?
- Talk about the songs and what you think they are about with a partner.

Self-Assessment

Yes

No

I listen to and read lyrics of one or two songs.

☐
☐

I consider the message in the song(s).

☐
☐

I talk about the songs with my partner.

☐
☐

Target Words

- preservation (noun): the action of keeping something or someone safe from harm
e.g. All over the world, wildlife preservation organizations are trying to protect whales.
- extinct (adjective): no longer existing e.g. Organizations are trying to protect whales from becoming extinct.
- to wipe out (verb): to completely remove from existence
e.g. Wildlife documentaries are a good reminder that some animals are in danger of being wiped out or already may be extinct.
- disconnected (adjective): removed from an issue; out of touch e.g. I feel so disconnected from the natural world.
- documentary (noun): a television program that provides a factual record or report e.g. I ought to watch more documentaries about wildlife.
- Arctic (adjective): related to the area around the North Pole
e.g. You could go on an Arctic cruise.
- seal (noun): a fish-eating mammal with a streamlined body and feet developed as flippers that lives in the ocean
e.g. You can see seals on an Arctic cruise.
- polar bear (noun): a large, white bear found in the Arctic e.g. You can see polar bears on an Arctic cruise.
- walrus (noun): A large animal found in the Arctic Ocean that possesses two large downward-pointing tusks e.g. You can see walruses on your Arctic cruise.
- illicit (adjective): illegal
e.g. There are many illicit actions against wildlife.

Learning Points

Showing That You Understand Someone's Feelings

You use must followed by an adjective when you want to empathize with someone. When you empathize with someone, you show them that you understand their feelings.

Here is the structure to follow:

subject + must + verb + adjective

Example:

You must feel depressed.

You must be excited.

They must be shocked!

It must be terrifying to do that!

You can use either -ed adjectives or -ing adjectives.

Don't forget to include the verb before the adjective.

Examples:

• Paul: I've stayed up all night.

Jessica: You must be tired.

• Tania: It must be fascinating living in Europe.

Bob: Yeah, it is!

Learning Points

Making Suggestions

You use modals to give advice and make suggestions.

The most common modals for giving advice are:
should, ought to and had better.

You can think of modals as “helping verbs”. They add meaning to the main verb of a sentence. In this case, these modals add the meaning of advice and suggestion.

Should is the most common modal used to give advice and to make suggestions.

Ought to and had better are used for giving strong advice and making strong suggestions.

Subject	Modal	Main Verb
You	should	read	more about wildlife preservation.
We	ought to	be	more careful about disposing of our garbage.
You	had better	do	more to protect the whales.

In conversation, it is common to use contractions with had better.

Examples:

- You ought to watch more wildlife documentaries.
- You should consider a “green” trip.
- You'd better become more aware of the illicit trade in your country.

