

Instructor: Date:

Learner: Regional Branch:

Program: Center:

CONTENT

- Let's Start! • Let's Explore! • Let's Practice! • Extension Activity • Target Words • Learning Points

Let's Start!

A little too close for comfort!

Learning Outcome

Identify and describe events in the news in a range of social and work contexts.

Ask your partner:

- Would you ever go diving with sharks? Why or why not?
- Why do you think people are interested in diving with sharks?

Can Do Statements

- I can talk about nature and the animal world.
- I can show I understand someone's feelings.
- I can ask for clarification or use rhetorical questions to emphasize a point.

Let's Explore!

Peter and Sally talk about diving with sharks. What is Sally all about?

* When you are "all about" something, you are really interested in it.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

- Peter: One thing I never want to do, and I see people doing on TV, is diving with sharks! That must be so terrifying! Especially the great white sharks! They're massive!
- Sally: I know! What do these people think they're doing?! I mean, I'm all about getting in touch with nature, but that's a little too close for comfort!
- Peter: No kidding! I saw this one show about shark diving in South Africa. People get in a cage and go down under the water as people on the surface lure the sharks to the area.
- Sally: Do you mean to tell me that they go in the water? That must be so frightening! The sharks are in their element there - the humans are not!
- Peter: Do you know how many people have been killed by sharks? Why would you knowingly swim with them? Some people have too much time on their hands.
- Sally: Do you remember what that show was you watched about the sharks? I'm kind of interested in checking it out.
- Peter: I think it was called Swimming with Sharks. It'll give you nightmares!
- Sally: It sounds really creepy, but interesting!
- Peter: Wow, you must be really obsessed with nature to voluntarily put yourself through that.

Let's Practice!

How do Peter and Sally ask for clarification and emphasize their points? What do they say?

Instructions: Read the sentences. Choose the correct questions that express clarification or emphasis.

1. What do those people think they're doing?
2. Do you mean to tell me that they go in the water?
3. Why do they go in the water?
4. Do you know how many people have been killed by sharks?
5. Why would you knowingly swim with them?
6. People knowingly swim with sharks?
7. Do you remember what that show was you watched about the sharks?

Let's Practice!

Tell me about diving with sharks!

Instructions: Match the two parts of the sentences from Column A to Column B.

COLUMN A

1. I saw this one show about shark
2. Especially the great
3. The sharks are in their
4. I think it was called
5. It sounds really creepy,
6. They were a little

COLUMN B

- a. white sharks! They're massive!
- b. diving in South Africa.
- c. Swimming with Sharks.
- d. too close for comfort.
- e. element there - the humans are not!
- f. but interesting!

Extension Activity

What's your opinion about diving with sharks?

Instructions: Complete the following steps. Fill in the Self-Assessment.

- Discuss the activity of diving with sharks with your partner.
- Talk about the advantages and disadvantages of doing an activity like diving with sharks.
- Keep the conversation going by asking follow-up questions.

Self-Assessment

Yes

No

I discuss the topic of diving with sharks with my partner.

☐ ☐

We keep the conversation going and show understanding of someone's feelings.

☐ ☐

I ask for clarification and emphasize a point.

☐ ☐

Target Words

- massive (adjective): very large e.g. Some sharks are massive!
- great white shark (noun): a large species of shark
e.g. It must be terrifying diving with a great white shark.
- too close for comfort (expression): dangerously or uncomfortably near e.g. Diving with sharks sounds too close for comfort.
- to lure (verb): to tempt by offering some type of reward
e.g. People get in a cage and go down under the water as people on the surface lure the sharks to the area.
- element (noun): natural environment
e.g. The sharks are in their element there - the humans are not!
- to put yourself through (expression): to expose yourself to a difficult or dangerous situation
e.g. You must love nature to put yourself through that.
- voluntarily (adverb): to do something by choice
e.g. I would never voluntarily dive with sharks!
- obsessed (adjective): having something occupy your mind most of the time
e.g. You must be really obsessed with nature.
- creepy (adjective): scary
e.g. It sounds really creepy, but interesting!

Learning Points

Asking for Clarification and Emphasizing a Point

You ask for clarification when you want more details of what the other person is talking about.

You can emphasize a point by asking rhetorical questions.

You can use embedded questions to ask for clarification. An embedded question is a question inside another question or statement.

Example:

Direct question: What was the show about sharks?

Embedded question: Do you remember what that show was you watched about the sharks?

You can also use rhetorical questions to emphasize a point. Rhetorical questions are questions that don't have an answer. The speaker just wants to make a point about something.

For example:

Do you know how many people have been killed by sharks? (The speaker doesn't really expect the listener to tell her how many people have been killed by sharks. Rather, she wants to emphasize the point that sharks are dangerous.)

Examples:

- Do you remember what that show was you watched about the sharks?
- Do you know how many people have been killed by sharks?
- Do you mean to tell me that they go in the water?

Learning Points

Showing That You Understand Someone's Feelings

You use must followed by an adjective when you want to empathize with someone. When you empathize with someone, you show them that you understand their feelings.

Here is the structure to follow:

Subject + must + verb + adjective

You must feel depressed.

You must be excited.

They must be shocked!

It must be terrifying to do that!

You can use either -ing adjectives or -ed adjectives.

An adjective that ends in -ING is used to describe the characteristic of a person, a thing or a situation.

Example: This is a very interesting topic.

An adjective that ends in -ED is used to describe a feeling or an emotion.

Example: I was bored at the concert.

Compare the difference:

He is bored. (It means that the person is not having fun at the moment.)

He is boring. (It means that the person is tedious and makes other people feel bored.)

Don't forget to include the verb before the adjective.

Examples:

- You must be obsessed with nature to put yourself through that.
- Diving with sharks must be terrifying!

