

Instructor: Date:

Learner: Regional Branch:

Program: Center:

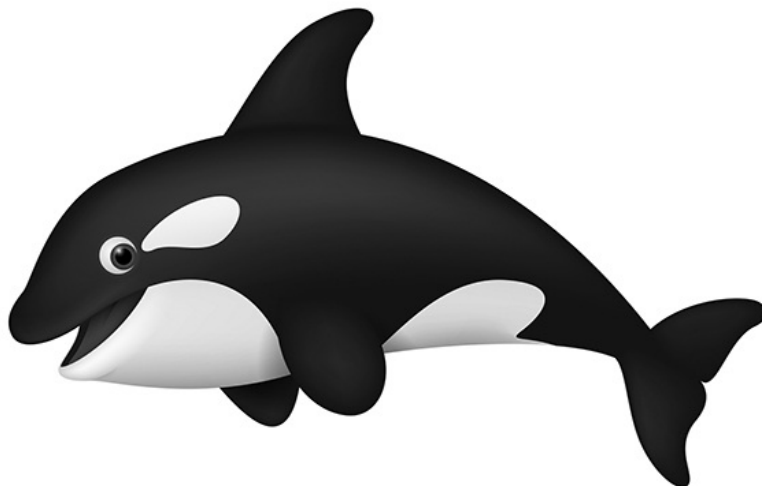

CONTENT

- Let's Start! • Let's Explore! • Let's Practice! • Extension Activity • Target Words • Learning Points

Let's Start!

Let's go whale watching!

Learning Outcome

Exchange advice and suggestions in communicative situations.

Ask your partner:

- What would you expect to see, if you could go whale watching?
- Have you ever thought about wildlife preservation? Is it a priority for you? Why or why not?

Can Do Statements

- I can talk about nature and the animal world.
- I can discuss how to deal with problems.
- I can talk about hypothetical situations.

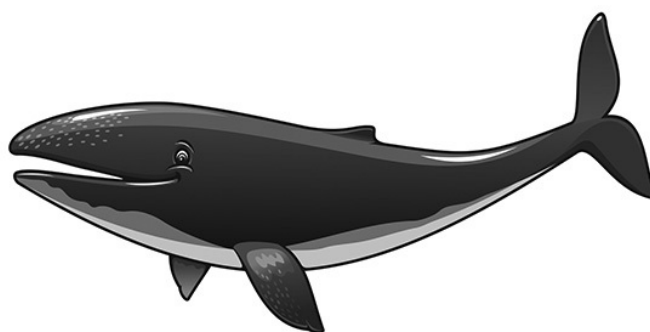

Let's Explore!

Let's read about whale watching. When did it first become a pastime?

* A "pastime" is an activity you do to pass the time.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

Whale Watching Around the World

If we want future generations to live in a world with whales, we'd better do more to protect them. All over the world, wildlife preservation organizations are trying to protect whales from becoming extinct. One way of preserving whales has been to convince governments that they can make more money from tourists coming to watch the whales than from hunting them. If people kept hunting them, they would wipe out some of the most fascinating mammals in the world.

Whale watching began in 1955 along the southern coast of California. Today, people go on whale watching tours in the waters of more than 40 countries. All the large whale species and many dolphins and porpoises can be seen regularly on tours that last from an hour to two weeks.

Japan is an example of this shift from whale hunting to whale watching. Until recently, Japan was a world leader in whale hunting. Today, the Japanese public ought to be more aware of the need to preserve nature and especially to protect the whales. Various organizations are working to make this happen. If we could go back in time, we would be able to safeguard the world's whale population.

Let's talk about nature!

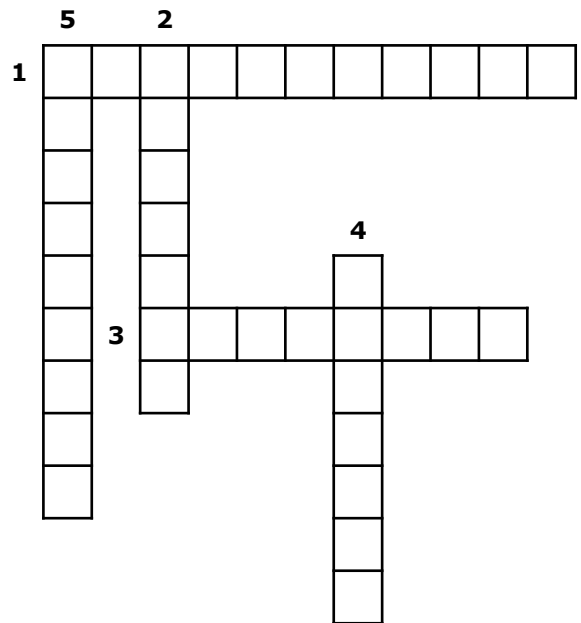

Instructions: Read the sentences. Complete the crossword.

Down

2. Activists, like Greenpeace, are trying to prevent whales from becoming _____.
4. If people keep hunting whales, they will _____ the population within years.
5. Dolphins and _____ can be seen regularly off the coast of Mexico.

Across

1. All over the world, wildlife _____ organizations are trying to protect whales.
3. _____ governments that they can make more money from tourists coming to watch the whales.

Let's Practice!

What would you do?

Instructions: Choose the words from the Word Bank to correctly complete the sentences. Use capitals where necessary.

Word Bank

I'd avoid / I knew more / we would be able to / kept hunting / if we spent

1. If people _____ them, they would wipe out some of the most fascinating mammals in the world.
2. If we could go back in time, _____ safeguard the world's whale population.
3. We would be able to appreciate nature more _____ more time learning about plants and animals.
4. If _____ about whales, I might want to go whale watching.
5. If I were a whale, _____ coming close to land where people could harm me.

Extension Activity

Watch a video about whales.

Instructions: Complete the following steps. Fill in the Self-Assessment.

- Go online and find a video featuring whales.
- Write down your thoughts and impressions.
- Share your thoughts with a partner. Try to talk about solutions to the current problem of whale preservation.
- Ask follow-up questions to keep the conversation going.

Self-Assessment

Yes

No

I watch a video about whales.

☐ ☐

I write notes about my thoughts and impressions.

☐ ☐

I share my thoughts with a partner.

☐ ☐

Target Words

- extinct (adjective): no longer existing e.g. Organizations are trying to protect whales from becoming extinct.
- to convince (verb): to cause (someone) to believe firmly in the truth of something Example: One way of preserving whales has been to convince governments to do something.
- preservation (noun): the action of keeping something or someone safe from harm
e.g. All over the world, wildlife preservation organizations are trying to protect whales.
- porpoise (noun): a small member of the whale family, related to the dolphin
e.g. All the large whale species and many dolphins and porpoises can be seen regularly on tours that last from an hour to two weeks.
- to wipe out (verb): to completely remove from existence
e.g. If people kept hunting whales, they would wipe out some of the most fascinating mammals in the world.
- to safeguard (verb): to protect e.g. If we could go back in time, we would be able to safeguard the world's whale population.

Learning Points

The Second Conditional - Talking About Hypothetical Situations

You use the second conditional to talk about unreal or imaginary (hypothetical) situations in the future.

For example:

If I had a million dollars, I would buy a car.

Do you have a million dollars? No.

Is it possible to suddenly get a million dollars? Not really.

What would you do if you had a million dollars? Buy a car.

IF	Condition	Result
Simple Past	Simple Past	would + base verb
If	I married Peter,	I would be happy.
If	it snowed next July,	I would be very surprised.
If	I were you,	I would be jumping up and down.

Remember to use a comma (,) after the IF clause.

In conversation, it is common to use contractions. (I would = I'd.)

Examples:

- If we could go back in time, we would be able to safeguard the world's whale population.
- If people kept hunting them, they would wipe out some of the most fascinating mammals in the world.

Learning Points

Giving Advice

You use modals to give advice.

The most common modals for giving advice are:
should, ought to and had better.

You can think of modals as “helping verbs”. They add meaning to the main verb of a sentence. In this case, these modals add the meaning of advice.

Should is the most common modal used to give advice.
Ought to and had better are used for giving strong advice.

Subject	Modal	Main Verb
You	should	read	more about wildlife preservation.
We	ought to	be	more careful about disposing of our garbage.
You	had better	do	more to protect the whales.

- In conversation, it is common to use contractions with had better.

Examples:

- We'd better do more to protect them.
- The Japanese public ought to be more aware of the need to preserve nature and especially to protect the whales.

